YOU CAN MAKE AN IMPACT

This year, San Francisco welcomes A'23 and its more than 20,000 attendees in early June. Before A'23 kicks-off, AEC Cares kicks off #projectSanFrancisco, bringing together architects, engineers, manufacturers, and contractors for one purpose: to give back to those most in need in our A'23 host city.

Your professional assistance can make #projectSanFrancisco a success

WHAT IS #projectSanFrancisco

This year, AEC Cares joins forces with the Larkin Street Youth (LSY) for #projectSanFrancisco. More than just a shelter, LSY helps thousands of young people ages 18-24 with temporary housing, mental health, and career counseling.

On June 7, the day before A'23 kicks off, more than 100 attendees will converge to paint, install, flooring, build furniture, replace lighting, and more. When finished, the Lark Inn will have several beautifully updated spaces to provide vital services to San Francisco's most vulnerable young people.

Empowering Young People to Move Beyond Homelessness

Founded in 1984, Larkin Street Youth has helped over 78,000 young adults in San Francisco by providing a continuum of healthcare, housing, employment, and education services.

Larkin Street Youth is San Francisco's largest nonprofit provider for young people experiencing homelessness. They are part of the movement to end youth homelessness on a national scale through policy partnerships with national organizations and fellow nonprofits.

ABOUT AEC CARES

For one day each year, AEC Cares brings together AEC professionals from all over for one shared purpose: to give back.

We partner with a local nonprofit, building material suppliers, contractors, and designers to give back to those most in need in the gracious cities that host the AIA Conference on Architecture each year. Previous project locations include New Orleans, Washington DC, Orlando, Philadelphia, Chicago, Denver, Atlanta, and Houston.

AEC Cares teams up with ConstructConnect and the AIA, along with our generous sponsors, donors, volunteers, and designers, to make as big of an impact as possible in a single day.
